PCN #: 2026-03-31-01	Notification Date 31.03.2026
1 Reason for EOL
☒ Material / Composition ☐ Processing / Manufacturing	☐ Design / Firmware ☐ Other: Other reason
2 Detailed Description of EOL Reason
The SX1308-based LoRaWAN concentrator card is hereby declared End-of-Life. The design is being superseded by a new concentrator card based on the SX1302 chipset, which offers significant improvements in power efficiency, receiver sensitivity, and overall LoRaWAN gateway performance.
3 Impact and Recommended Action
The EOL of the SX1308-based concentrator card affects customers who have integrated this card into their LoRaWAN gateway designs. No further hardware revisions, firmware updates, or long-term supply guarantees will be provided for the SX1308-based card beyond the defined last-order date. Customers maintaining existing deployments should plan accordingly to avoid supply chain disruptions. Customers are strongly encouraged to migrate to the new SX1302-based concentrator card at the next available design cycle opportunity. The new card is designed as a drop-in replacement with improved power efficiency and performance, minimizing re-engineering effort. Miromico recommends: • Evaluating the SX1302-based card against current design requirements • Requesting sample units from Miromico for validation • Planning a transition timeline ahead of the last-order date for the SX1308-based card • Contacting Miromico support for migration guidance and technical assistance
